Bipartisan Try for Treaty Ban Up in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, said today he will vote for ratification of the limited nuclear test ban treaty. He also said President Kennedy plans to issue a statement that "might dispell and resolve some of the apprehensions and misgivings" concerning the treaty.

Dirksen told newsmen that his support of the treaty "has probably been envisioned" from his previous statements, but this was the first time that he had said flatly that he would vote for ratification.

"I'll support the treaty," he said, adding that he felt that it would be ratified.

Dirksen announced his support after talking with President Kennedy at the White House.

He was accompanied there by the Democratic Senate leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Dirksen said the president will send a letter to Mansfield, probably Wednesday, which will be "one of clarification and assurance."

Mansfield said he thought such a letter would prove helpful in gaining votes for ratification.

The President is trying to build up bipartisan support for the treaty.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy tries today to build up bipartisan support for the limited nuclear test-ban treaty by calling in Senate leaders an hour before formal debate begins on the historic pact.

Although the administration is confident of ratification, several senators have announced their opposition and the President is taking no chances. His meeting at the White House in late morning with Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Everett M. Dirksen may result in some bipartisan statement of reassurance to the country that the treaty would not endanger U.S. security.

Two other powerful senators, the top Democrat and the senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, open the Senate debate with their endorsement of the ban on all but underground atomic blasts.

"The simple compelling fact of the times," Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said in his prepared remarks, "is that no nation would be likely to survive as an organized society in a nuclear war."

"It is this prospect . . . that makes it essential for us to break out of the fatal cycle of fear and armaments and greater fear and finally war."

"The nuclear test - ban treaty will not break the cycle. It is far too modest an effort to have."

Birmingham Chief to Talk

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Birmingham, Ala. police chief Eugene (Bull) Connor, a controversial figure during desegregation demonstrations in Birmingham, will speak at Little Rock Tuesday.

Amis Guthridge, president of the Little Rock Capital Citizens Council, said segregationists from throughout the state are invited to hear Connor speak at the Coachman's inn at 7:30 p.m.

Connor lost his post as a result of a change in the Birmingham city administration.

Home Repair Deal Ruled Usurious

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court voided as usurious today a home repair contract executed by a Saline County couple with a Des Moines, Iowa, building firm.

The court held that the $1,600 contract, which called for payment of $400 down, a $1,200 balance, $306.50 in carrying charges and seven per cent interest, violated the Arkansas prohibition against charging more than 10 per cent interest.

The Supreme Court was considering only one point — whether the contract should be considered to have been executed in Arkansas or Iowa. It was signed at Benton, Ark., but called for payments to be made at Des Moines, Saline County Court had held that it was an Iowa contract and that the contract should not have been voided simply because the interest rate was too high.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hutchingson of Benton filed the suit against Republic Finance Co., of Des Moines, which bought the contract from the original executor, Builders Supply Co., of Des Moines.

In other cases, the Supreme Court: Reversed the burglary and grand larceny conviction of Joe Dement on grounds that his plea of guilty in Greene Circuit Court was entered without the advice of an attorney. A new trial was ordered. Dement was sentenced last Dec. 7 to two 10-year prison terms.

Affirmed the conviction of B. C. Stevenson Jr., 24, who was sentenced in Monroe Circuit Court to 21 years in prison for the fatal shooting of his brother-in-law, Curtis Diamond.

Reversed the Phillips Circuit Court conviction of Alma Rollo for forgery and uttering charges because the records showed one juror left the deliberations and asked the judge for information when law requires that any such information be given to the entire jury.

Civil War Battle Is Re-enacted

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The confederates suffered a real casualty Sunday when the Civil War Battle of Little Rock was re-enacted at Fourche Creek in Little Rock.

George (Butch) Borskey, 16, of Port Hudson, La., was hospitalized but reported in satisfactory condition after a cannon misfired. Borskey received powder burns on his arms, face and eyes.

He was a member of the Franklin Gardner Camp Artillery from Port Hudson.

News photographers were threatened with arrest by State Troopers and a sheriff's deputy when they tried to take pictures of the injured youth.

The battle Sunday was a reenactment of the Sept. 10, 1863 battle which cost the confederates the city of Little Rock and much of Arkansas.

The reenactment drew units from Arkansas, Louisiana and Alabama and a crowd of spectators estimated at between 6,000 and 7,000 persons.

Mrs. Campbell, 78, to Be Buried Here Monday

Mrs. Hassie Campbell, aged 78, a longtime resident of Hope, died Saturday in a local hospital. She was a member of the Garrett Memorial Baptist Church.

Survivors include two sons, Victor Campbell of Coppell, Texas, and Perry Campbell of Hope; two daughters, Mrs. Dale Tomemaker and Mrs. Annie Lee Roberts, both of Hope, one brother, Leslie Quinn of Dierks.

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. Monday at Garrett Memorial Baptist Church by a Rev. Clyde Johnson, assisted by Dr. George Balentine. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius was to be in Memory Gardens.

'Miss America' Won Her First Competition Here

THE BEAUTY, GRACE, AND CHARM THAT WON THE Miss America title for Donna Axum of El Dorado last Saturday night at Atlantic City were evident in her very first contest two years ago, right here in Hope — which she won.

THE PICTURE SHOWS HER ON STAGE IN THE COLISEUM of the Third District Livestock Showgrounds just after being named one of the four Southwest Arkansas Poetry Princesses June 2, 1961 — later in the same year being named Arkansas Forestry Queen.

DONNA IS THE DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. HURLEY B. Axum. Her father is executive vice-president of El Dorado's Exchange National Bank.

THE STAR'S PICTURE OF DONNA ORIGINALLY SHOWED all four finalists on the Coliseum stage, and was published here Monday, June 5, 1961, with simultaneous publication in the El Dorado Daily News. Today's picture is an enlargement from the original quartet, of Miss Axum alone — with a copy to her home town paper, as in 1961.

School Men Must Have More Hours

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Board of Education has approved a requirement that new school administrators must have 60 semester hours of college work beyond the bachelor's degree beginning in 1968.

The requirement approved Sunday night, will not affect the certification of persons who become administrators in the state before 1968.

The board also approved a requirement that school counselors must have a master's degree beginning in 1966.

The board accepted Education Commissioner A. W. Ford's suggestion that it hire Education Research Services of New York, a consulting firm, to make a study of the operation and effects of the state Minimum Foundation Program of school aid.

The board was directed by the 1963 legislature to make a study and report its findings to the 1965 legislature. More than $80 million will be distributed to local school districts this year under the Minimum Foundation Program.

Couple Injured

PINEVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A North Little Rock, Ark. couple escaped serious injury Sunday when their light plane crashed-landed in a field near Pineville, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parish were taken to a Stella, Mo. hospital where she was treated for a broken arm and he was treated for lacerations and possible broken nose.

Teachers in N. Y. Call Off Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Public school teachers called off their threatened strike Sunday night and approved a new contract which included pay increases.

More than a million pupils started the fall term in New York City's 850 public schools today.

The United Federation of Teachers, AFL - CIO, reached agreement with the Board of Education. About 8,500 teachers voiced approval of the settlement.

The settlement was proposed by a three-man mediation panel set up by Mayor Robert F. Wagner on Friday.

Before the agreement, union president Charles Cogen had said the teachers would picket the schools in defiance of a State Supreme Court order obtained by the city and despite a state law which forbids strikes by public employees.

The teachers' new two-year contract will give most of them $580 more during the pay period.

Salaries now range from $5,300 to $10,435. Although the minimum salary under the contract will remain the same, the maximum will go to $11,025 on July 1, 1964. In addition to salary increases, the contract limits class sizes, sets up improved grievance procedures, and establishes a continuing committee of school and union representatives to consider such matters as recruiting teachers and improving school conditions.

Miss America Holds a Press Conference

By CHARLES WEST

NEW YORK (AP) — Donna Axum, a smiling and beautiful Miss America, held her first New York news conference today unaware that her stepgrandfather had just died.

The death message came to the suite in the plush Park Lane Hotel where she met the press.

Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Hurley B. Axum, kept from her the knowledge that Fred E. Tate had died at his home in Baton Rouge, La. at the age of 93 after a long illness. He was her mother's stepfather. The mother said Tate was like a natural grandfather to Donna.

"She'll take it well. It shouldn't come as too much of a shock to her," Axum said.

Donna, meantime, deftly talked with newsmen about such general topics as boy friends, beauty contests, and diets.

She sat on a red damask stuffed chair which resembled a throne but did not wear the Miss America crown she won at Atlantic City Saturday night.

Her parents stood in a corner of the large reception room, admiration and pride evident despite the saddening news. They will return to their home in El Dorado, Ark., this afternoon and fly to Louisiana Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Axum planned to arrive in Little Rock at 4:30 p.m. (CST), then drive to El Dorado.

Donna will not go to Baton Rouge. She has a full week of posing for advertisements.

Donna, 21, checked into a New York hotel Sunday night from the pageant at Atlantic City, N.J., for some solid rest before a full round of activities.

The figure that helped her defeat 51 other contestants and win the Miss America crown Saturday night may suffer if the pace becomes too hectic.

Donna's first ambition, after this year is over, is to return to the University of Arkansas; complete her education and then undertake graduate work in radio and television entertainment.

"I would like to go into television as either an actress or by doing commercials," she said.

Also on her list of ambitions is marriage—to a Christian gentleman with a sense of humor who would love her and want to make a home for two children. Donna said she does not have a steady boyfriend.

She is Arkansas' first Miss America, but the state may have to admire her at a distance for a while because of Miss America commitments around the country.

When she won the coveted title over 50 other contestants at Atlantic City, N.J. Saturday night, she also fell heir to some $75,000.

4 Escapees Are Back in Prison

DUMAS, Ark. (AP)—Four Negroes who sneaked away from a work line in a patch of tall cotton at Cummins Prison Farm last Thursday are back in prison today.

The four gained a little more than 50 hours freedom, spent mostly within a 40-square mile area of heavy woods and swamp.

They were captured Saturday afternoon, 30 miles southwest of the prison farm, near the Drew County community of Coleman.

Prison Supt. Dan Stephens identified the four as Fred Hooks, 17, sentenced to life for murder; Chester Jerome Nash, 19, sentenced to nine years for burglary; Lawrence Willie Turner, 21, sentenced to 21 years for burglary and grand larceny and Theodore Clark, 23, sentenced to 21 years for burglary.

State Police, prison officials, Jefferson and Lincoln County sheriffs' deputies and local authorities sealed off the 40-square-mile area near the escape scene within a few hours after the Negroes made their break.

Stephens said bloodhounds were used in tracking the men, but several tips on their whereabouts were received from residents of the area.

They entered several houses during their freedom, Stephens said, taking food and clothing.

They were unable to find firearms, he added, though they had ammunition for shotguns and rifles. The men also had knives on them when arrested.

Stephens said they offered no resistance.

The prison break was the largest to occur at the farm since 1960, when four men broke out after killing a trusty guard.

Released on Bond After Mistrial

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Burl Grider, 28, of Clarksville, whose rape trial in circuit court at Clarksville was declared a mistrial Saturday, has been released on $10,000 bond.

Circuit Judge Wiley Bean reduced Grider's bond from $25,000. Bean declared a mistrial when jurors were hopelessly deadlocked 5-7 after more than five hours of deliberations.

Grider was ordered to appear at the first session of the 1964 term of circuit court which opens in February. Grider is charged in the rape of a 20-year-old Clarksville housewife July 13 at Lake Ludwig near Clarksville.

More Dry, and Warm Weather

Western and southern Arkansas got some locally heavy thunder-showers Sunday, but generally warm, dry weather is predicted for the next few days.

Except for a vagrant thunder-shower that dropped 11-hundredths of an inch of rain on Walnut Ridge and 19-hundredths on Jonesboro, northeast Arkansas remained dry Sunday.

Highs Sunday afternoon were generally in the upper 80s to the low 90s while overnight lows ranged from the mid 60s to the low 70s this morning.

Highs of 88-95 were predicted for this afternoon and lows of 66-74 were expected tonight.

Temperatures during the next five days were expected to average two to six degrees above normal with only minor daily changes. Normal highs range from the mid 80s north to the upper 80s south, normal lows from the low 60s north to the mid 60s south.

Thundershowers during the last of the week were expected to produce a quarter of an inch of rain with locally heavier amounts.

Castro Sees Nothing But Crooks

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro predicts the 1964 presidential election will pit President Kennedy against Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona — "both cheap and crooked politicians."

"We have heard Goldwater is tough," said Castro in an impromptu interview at a Brazilian Embassy reception this weekend. "Well, if he is elected let him try his tough policies on Cuba. We will know how to defend ourselves and we will not be afraid to face him."

Castro said he expected no change in U.S. foreign policy if there is a change in administration.

Postmaster General Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Gronouski, 43, Wisconsin state tax commissioner, was named today by President Kennedy to be postmaster general.

Gronouski will succeed J. Edward Day, the original postmaster general in Kennedy's Cabinet, who resigned Aug. 9.

Until the Senate acts on Gronouski's nomination, which Kennedy will submit in the next few days, Sidney W. Bishop will continue to serve as acting postmaster general—a position he has held since Day's departure.

Gronouski, a Democrat, has been commissioner of taxation for the state of Wisconsin since January 1960. Prior to that, he was research director for the tax department.

A resident of Madison, Wis., Gronouski has a doctor of philosophy degree in taxation and public finance.

He has held teaching posts at the University of Maine and Wayne University, Detroit.

A Polish-American, Gronouski was born in Dunbar, Wis., Oct. 26, 1919, but grew up in Oshkosh where he attended St. Peter's School then Oshkosh State College, for three years.

Graham Ends Successful Crusade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, ending his most successful U.S. crusade, told what was perhaps the largest U.S. religious gathering in history: "If we are to survive as a nation, we must go back to the faith of our fathers."

Around him in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Sunday night — filling every seat and spreading a carpet of humanity across the football field — was a throng counted by the Graham group at 134,254.

Outside the gates, police were turning away another 20,000 persons.

It was the largest crowd ever to attend a Graham meeting in this country, and eclipsed the figure previously claimed as the greatest single U.S. religious meeting—the 122,814 who attended a Jehovah's Witnesses convention Aug. 2, 1958, in New York's Yankee Stadium.

While Graham was attracting a great throng to the Coliseum, in nearby Pasadena the Jehovah's Witnesses everlasting good news assembly gathered a crowd of 118,447—an all-time record there—into the Rose Bowl for their afternoon meeting, and another 85,624 Sunday night.

However, Two Negroes Enter at Huntsville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — State troopers sent into action by Gov. George Wallace barred Negroes today from public schools at Birmingham, Mobile and Tuskegee which the federal courts had ordered desegregated.

But Alabama's color barriers in public education at the elementary school level fell for the first time when two first grade pupils were admitted at Huntsville.

In a series of pre-dawn executive orders, Wallace had directed that segregation be maintained at Birmingham, Mobile and Tuskegee. He was silent about Huntsville.

He alerted National Guard units at Birmingham "just in case they are needed."

Troopers in the three cities where segregation was maintained—at least for the time being—read copies of the Wallace orders to the young Negroes when they arrived for classes.

The first rejections were at Mobile. A boy and a girl who had registered at a high school last week were turned away. Their lawyers immediately filed a restraining order motion against Wallace in federal court.

At Birmingham, white pupils leaned out of school windows to shout, "Nigger go home," when a state police official told a 16-year-old boy there would be no school for him today. The boy was turned away from Ramsay High.

Thirteen Negro pupils arrived on a segregated school bus driven by a Negro a few minutes after white pupils had entered the building at Tuskegee. They never left the bus.

A patrolman stepped forward and informed them of the Wallace order. He then passed out mimeographed copies. A state trooper was in the bus with the Negroes when it departed.

Two Negro girls who approached West End High school in Birmingham were met by Col. Al Lingo, state patrol chief. Two Negro lawyers were with the girls.

"You will not be allowed to enter; leave the campus," Lingo told the group several times.

Attorney Ernest Jackson inquired: "Do I understand you are telling me to leave?"

"I'm telling you to leave immediately," Lingo said.

The group left to the jeers of more white children leaning from windows.

Joe Dolan, assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, watched the encounters at Birmingham. Prior to the confrontation at West End, Lingo gave Dolan a copy of Wallace's executive order. A Justice Department official, John Doar, also was present at Tuskegee.

"The governor has pledged to preserve law and order in the state and he will do whatever is necessary," Bill Jones, Wallace's press secretary, said in advising that National Guard units had been alerted by the governor at Birmingham.

Two Negroes who registered at a Mobile high school last week were turned away when they appeared for class today. Maj. Joe Smalley of the highway patrol handed them a copy of an executive order issued by Wallace letting white children in but keeping Negroes out.

J. L. Leflore, Mobile Negro leader, announced that a federal court suit challenging Wallace's actions will be filed immediately "in order to get these kids in school."

"The governor has no more. Continued on Page Two

However, Two

right to violate federal law than he has to violate state law," Leflore said.

At Washington, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy went into conference with top Justice Department aides on Wallace's latest attempt to block desegregation.

The governor made no mention of Huntsville, where four Negroes were scheduled to enter four white schools.

Dr. Raymond Christian, school superintendent in Huntsville said: "We plan to operate schools as usual for all day classes and we will comply with the federal court integration order."

Wallace said he took the action because "the threats of force and unwarranted integration of the public schools of this state is detrimental to the public interest."

The governor claimed in his orders "that integration of the public school will totally disrupt and effectively destroy the education process."

Police Capt. Jack Warren, on duty at one of the Birmingham schools, said that as far as he is concerned the schools are open for integration.

Twenty carloads of state troopers pulled up at Birmingham's West End High School where city policemen and sheriff's deputies had arrived earlier. Some of the state forces were in plain clothes with armbands reading "Alabama Department of Public Safety."

About 20 troopers arrived at Tuskegee.

Troopers lined in front of the campus at Murphy High School at Mobile where two Negroes registered Wednesday but did not attend classes.

There was no doubt in the minds of anyone that the fiery Wallace had challenged and defied the federal government on school integration.

His executive orders, which he used to delay school openings on an integrated basis last week in Tuskegee and Huntsville were issued less than three hours before class time today.

The latest gubernatorial decree bore down hard on the theory that the entry of Negroes would abridge the civil rights of the white pupils "and deprive them of equal protection of the laws."

The new Wallace course seemed to be following a decision by federal Judge Frank Scarlett in a Savannah, Ga., school desegregation case earlier this year. Scarlett ordered segregation continued but was promptly reversed by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The case has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Wallace and a group of attorneys who appeared with him on a statewide television network Sunday night pointed to the Scarlett ruling and said the issue of interracial schools still was in the courts. They denied that the 1954 Supreme Court decision voiding public school segregation is "the law of the land."

The showdown came on the heels of more violence in racially-battered Birmingham. Two fire bombs were hurled at the home of a Negro millionaire, A. G. Gaston, early Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Gaston escaped injury and their $150,000 home was damaged only slightly.

In his television report a few hours later, Wallace again declared violence and urged Alabamians to continue their fight against integration lawfully.

Last Wednesday night dynamite bombs badly damaged the home of Arthur D. Shores, prominent Negro attorney, and police clashed with Negroes in the streets adjacent to his home. One Negro was killed and 20 persons injured in the rioting that followed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Twenty-four Negro children prepared today to attend white schools in four Alabama cities while the state waited to see what Gov. George C. Wallace would do.

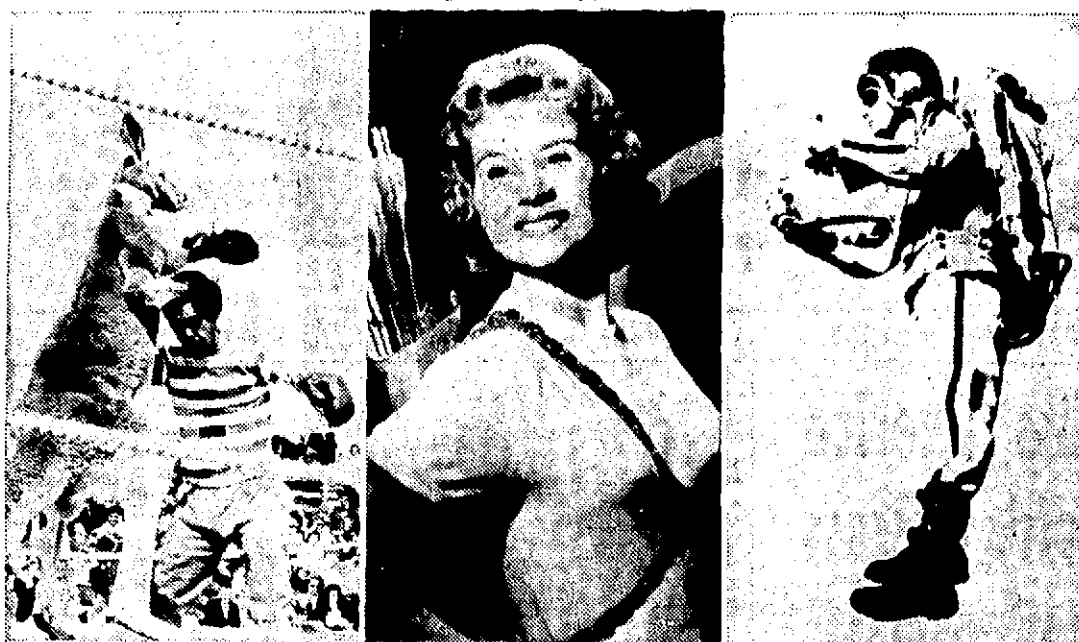

The showdown came on the heels of more violence in this racially-battered city. Firebombs were tossed at the home of a Negro millionaire early Sunday.

Schools facing integration were scheduled to open at Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile and Tuskegee. Wallace would not say Sunday night whether he would send in state troopers to block Negro pupils as he did last week at Tuskegee and Huntsville.

A federal court hearing was set for 11 a.m. on a motion by Huntsville Negro attorneys for an injunction against interference by the governor.

In Birmingham, heavy city-county police guards were assigned to schools where five Negroes were to attend classes. White segregationists clashed with policemen Wednesday at two schools.

"I shall continue this fight," Wallace said in a statewide television address Sunday night which many had thought would be an outline of his future plans for com-

"But if it is faithfully observed, this treaty can in some small measure mitigate the fears and suspicions of the cold war and perhaps in time lead to further measures of limited accommodation."

After Fulbright speaks, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, ranking Republican on the committee and chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, is expected to follow with an endorsement of the treaty.

The Foreign Relations Committee held extensive hearings on the pact and then recommended ratification, 16-1. The lone dissenter was Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La. The Senate Armed Services subcommittee held separate, secret hearings on the treaty, and unlike the foreign relations group made no direct recommendation.

Three subcommittee members, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Barry Goldwater R-Ariz., have announced they will vote against ratification. A fourth member, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., has said he has not yet made up his mind about how he will vote.

Two other senators, Levere Saltonstall, R-Mass., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., have announced for ratification. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith R-Maine, is expected to join them.

The divided subcommittee got out a report saying the Soviet Union has surpassed the United States in development of big nuclear bombs, that the Russians may possess superior knowledge of antimissile programs and that under the treaty they may draw abreast in low yield weapons technology.

To be approved, the treaty needs the support of two-thirds of the senators who vote—67 if all 100 are recorded. An administration source has said an unofficial nose count shows that the opposition "will muster no more than 20 votes."

Two Persons Meet Death Violently

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two persons died violently in Arkansas Sunday, boosting the state's violent death toll for the week ending at midnight to 12.

Joel Newton Johnson, 65, of Little Rock, was electrocuted Sunday when a steel rod he was using to drill a well came in contact with an electric line.

Gerald R. Bishop, 33, also of Little Rock was killed in a hunting accident on a country road near Sherill in Jefferson County. Authorities said Bishop was struck in the head by a shotgun blast. They said he was standing outside the car and a gun in the car discharged.

Three persons died in three separate shootings Saturday at El Dorado, DeWitt and Little Rock.

Earlier in the week, four persons died in traffic accidents which occurred at Kingsland, Morrilton, Walcott and Jonesboro. One man died near Pine Bluff when a tractor overturned on him, one person was killed by lightning at North Little Rock and another died in a construction accident at Cherry Valley.

in personal appearance contracts. It is estimated she will travel more than 200,000 miles in fulfilling them.

Her first expression just before Jacqueline Mayer of Sandusky, Ohio, the 1963 "Miss America," placed the crown on her head was a startled, "Oh Oh!"

Her reaction at the end of all the ceremony Saturday night was, "I want to sleep as long as I can without interfering with my obligations."

The first two of those obligations were filled Sunday—an appearance for news media and at an awards luncheon.

A former Arkansas is in her court, 18-year-old Susan Dee Pickering of Hawaii. Miss Pickering, youngest girl in the contest, is a native of Fort Smith. Her grandmother, Mrs. John Gregory, said Saturday night she would ask Susan to visit Fort Smith.

Members of Donna's court are Miss District of Columbia, Rosanne Tueller, 20, of McLean, Va., first runner up; Miss Hawaii second runner-up; Miss Tennessee, Martha Ellen Truett, 19, of Tiptonville and Miss Arizona Susan Jean Bergstrom, 21, of Phoenix.

News of Donna's selection swept the state almost instantly and reactions bounced back like radar.

Her sorority sisters at the university gathered to watch the television show, but when they learned Donna was "Miss America," the session broke up as the girls went to spread the news around campus.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, on a fishing trip in eastern Arkansas, sent a telegram.

Mayor Roy H. Goudy of El Dorado said "we were very confident Donna would win . . . she will make a great ambassador for our state."

All of the Axum family was in Atlantic City for the pageant. They were to return today. Her father, Hurley B. Axum, is executive vice president of the Exchange National Bank of El Dorado. She has a sister, Mrs. Robert T. Turnham of Shreveport, La.

Donna, a member of the famed Schola Cantorum group of the University of Arkansas, has a history of success both in winning beauty contests and the talent field.

She was the first baby born in El Dorado in 1942 and before she captured the "Miss Arkansas" title at Hot Springs this year had walked away with 10 victories in beauty contests.

Her favorite foods are turnip greens, smothered steak, corn break and fried okra, and she says she can eat all she wants without worrying about adding to her 124 pounds or changing her 35-23-35 measurements. She is five feet, 6½ inches tall.

Donna says her ambition is to finish her studies at Fayetteville, then do graduate work in radio and television.

Circle 1, WSCS, Meets

Circle 1, WSCS, of the First Methodist Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. P. H. Webb with Mrs. W. C. Miller as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. M. L. Fox, Sr., Circle leader with prayer. The roll was called and the minutes were read of the last meeting by Mrs. Frank Miller, secretary. Old and new business was discussed and also a quarterly report was given of the circle.

The devotional was taken from Genesis 1 through 2:4 by Mrs. Grayden Anthony.

Mrs. Cecil Weaver, program Chairman, presented the lesson on "Those Who Care". There were 16 members present and 1 visitor, Mrs. Charlie Taylor.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Miss Suzellen Wood Compimented with Party

The W. N. Patterson home of Texarkana was the scene recently of an afternoon party complimenting Miss Suzellen Wood, fiancée of James Tate of Hope. Hostesses with Mrs. Patterson were Mrs. W. R. Johnson, Mrs. Merle Jamison and Mrs. T. C. Chadick.

The dining table, laid with an imported cloth, was centered with Majestic daisies in silver. Seasonal flowers were seen at other points of interest in the home. Mrs. John Barkman served punch. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. P. G. Poston and Mrs. L. F. Pirkey. Other members of the house party included Mrs. Travis Schnipper, Mrs. Robert Ashley, Miss Carmen Coffman and Miss Fran Mitchell.

The honoree was presented a corsage of gold and white carnations and a gift of silver. Similar corsages were presented to Mrs. Jack Wood, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. W. L. Tate of Hope, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. M. H. Stewart of Hope, grandmother of the future bridegroom, and his aunt, Mrs. Nelson Frazier of Washington.

Wood-Tate Wedding Party Rehearsal

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tate were hosts for a dinner at the Holiday Inn in Texarkana Friday, September 6 for members of the Wood-Tate wedding party after the rehearsal.

Mums and glads in shades of gold and salmon were used as table decorations. The bride-elect, Miss Suellen Wood, wore white brocade for the dinner.

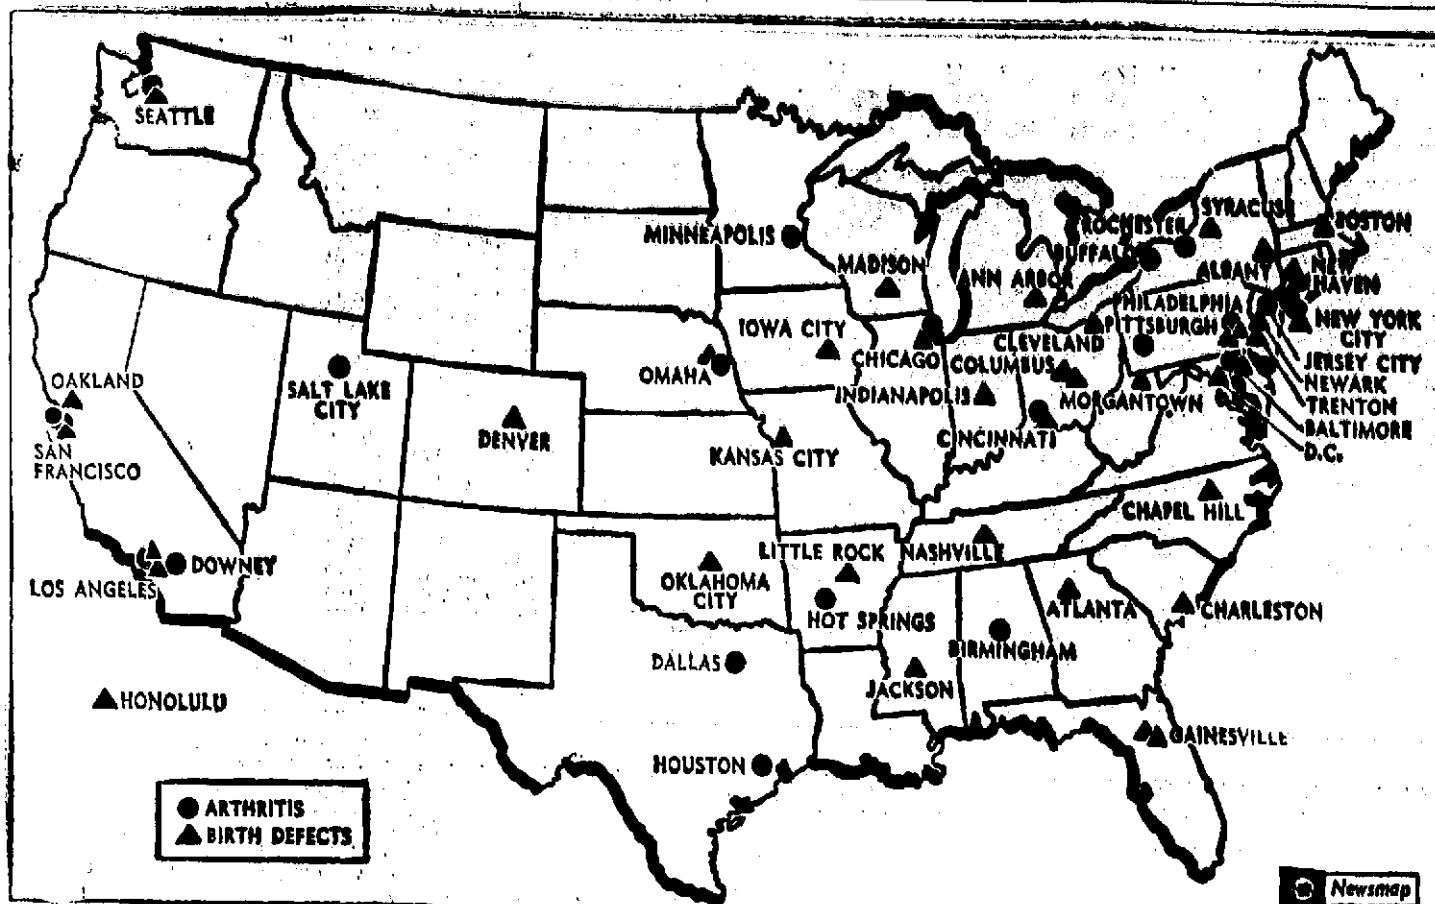

She and her fiancé, James Tate, chose that time to present gifts to the members of their wedding. Covers were laid for 15, including David Watkins of Hope.

DOROTHY DIX

THE ANSWER TO LONELINESS

By HELEN WRDEN ERSKIN

Dear Helen: Having been a widow for several years and the target of well-meaning advice, I sympathize with the lonely widow who recently wrote you. When suddenly bereft of my wife and left with a small daughter to rear, I got plenty of advice but no real help—not even from my wife's parents. If the widow in question is self-supporting, I doubt that she has the time for all the good works you recommend. Maybe she has even tried all those various remedies and reached a stalemate as have I. You wonder how anyone can be lonely. I wonder what your own status has been. —Lonely Widow

Dear Lonely: You seem to doubt that I have ever known what it is to be lonely. I wouldn't be qualified to advise you, or the lonely widow, if I had not been faced with the same problem many, many times. There was a period in my life when all those near and dear to me died; first my mother, then my husband, and uncle who was like a father to me and finally, my closest friend. Loneliness engulfed me with the relentlessness of a tidal wave from which there was no escape. Wherever I went in the midst of crowds, with friends or at home—that dreadful sense of loneliness surrounded me.

I found my salvation in work, more work, until there was not a single second left to think of self. In the doing, I gradually built a new life. That was what I recommended for the widow. I do the same for you. My leaflet, "Don't Be Lonely," may be of help. A self-addressed envelope will bring it to you.

Dear Helen: My daughter, a junior in high, was in the eighth grade at parochial school, the boys teased her. On the verge of adolescence, she was loud and awkward.

Now she is a real little lady and gets along well with girls but can't bring herself to go to parties where there are boys.

Every time she does she comes home crying. I ask why. She says she will always have that scar from the eighth grade when they treated her so badly. She feels she is not as good as the rest.

I pray continuously that she gain self-confidence. Is there any way you can help her? —Anxious Mother

Dear Anxious: How fortunate your daughter is to have so wise and understanding a mother! Whatever it is that happened to her, it's over and done with and very probably she is the only one that remembers about it.

Tell her that there are few of us who have not had to "live down" something or other some time in our lives. So often the incident is relatively unimportant but is magnified out of all proportion by our sense of guilt or shame. Such experiences are unpleasant, upsetting and sometimes shattering, but there is no reason to allow them to utterly ruin the chances for pleasures and happiness.

Tell her to hold her head high and to believe in herself—that "scar" is just a bugaboo. If you can't convince her that she is just as good as anyone else she knows, perhaps your priest could help her.

Dear Helen: Answering Lonely Widow's letter, I would like to know what church she attends. Regardless of her faith, she needs the church and the church her. Maybe I could be of help and, in the doing, be helped by her. Confused

Dear Confused: I appreciate

Feels Sorry for Girls Who Lost

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—That true harbinger of fall, the annual Miss America pageant, arrived on CBS Saturday night and proved, as usual, to be a fascinating and often embarrassingly awful television program.

There is something at once dramatic and tragic about this yearly fuss over picking and crowning Miss America. While the official judges' votes are final, millions of television viewers have their own opinions about beauty and talent too.

For instance, the viewers at my house were pulling for Miss Alabama, mostly because she played the marimba. And it seemed, judging from the sounds coming from the set, that the crowd in the Atlantic City auditorium was loudly in Miss Hawaii's corner.

But Miss Arkansas won, and she is certainly a pretty, poised and an obviously sincere young lady. But her demonstration of talent—singing "I Love Paris" while snatching on and off a pair of dark glasses and flinging a fur scarf around—completely eluded me.

The two hours were a field day for the nation's girl-watchers. The contestants were all fresh-faced, slim and pretty, once they abandoned those street clothes and overpowering hats in favor of ball gowns.

Bert Parks, an old hand at the game, was around to warble that stirring anthem, "There she is, Miss Ann-air-ich," and keep things rolling when an occasional cue was missed.

Well, it's an autumn rite and now it's over. Donna Axum won, and I feel sorry for the girls who lost, particularly the marimba player.

Your thought as I am sure Lonely Widow will, if she happens to see this column. But worthy though your idea is, cannot give you her name for this is not a Lonely Hearts column. Thanks, just the same!

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

After Moon, Mars Landing to Be Tried

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)
—The United States has set a goal of landing astronauts on the moon before 1970. After this momentous achievement, what will be the course of the nation's manned space program?

National Aeronautics and Space Administration planners are studying the engineering, funding and other aspects of possible programs to follow the Apollo lunar landing project. Their main interests are in multiman space stations orbiting the earth, manned flights to Mars and a permanent moon exploration base.

Eventually, all three programs may be attempted. But the costs are high and the space agency must decide which deserves priority. Because of the years required between the drawing board and the launching pad, decisions are expected within a few months.

Most officials believe the space station is the most logical next step because it would contribute greatly to Mars and lunar base missions.

Michael Yarymovych, assistant director of NASA's manned space station office, reported stations orbiting the earth for periods up to five years would help determine how long men and equipment can operate in space weight-lessness.

"The main purpose of a space station," Yarymovych said,
"would be biomedical research.
Before we spend any length of time flying to the planets or establishing moon colonies, we must learn man's capabilities of performing useful missions in space over extended periods."

A physician, Yarymovych said, should be a member of every space station crew to monitor the health and psychological well-being of the astronauts.

From their sky-high research laboratory, the station team could conduct experiments in astronomy, biology, communications, weather physics chemistry and for which some sort of record ex-to an announcement made today by I. C. Davis, Vice President in charge of general operations for Morgan & Lindsey, Inc.

Mr. Morris succeeds J. E. Neal who is no longer with the company.

Mr. Morris moves to Hope from Indiana, Pennsylvania where he has served as an advanced assistant manager at the G. C. Murphy Company store since June 1956. The G. C. Murphy Company is the parent organization of Morgan & Lindsey, Inc.

Mr. Morris started his career with the Murphy Company as a management-trainee at Fairmont, West Virginia and served subsequent assistant manager assignments at Philippi, West Virginia and Latrobe, Pennsylvania prior to his Indiana assignment.

Included in Mr. Morris' family are his wife, Betty and one child, Betsy, aged 13. He officially takes over management of the Hope store on September 6, 1963 and will be joined by his family here at an early date.

season, there will be added a gay experiment in a comedy form rare in the nighttime canals.

It is a CBS series called "My Favorite Martian," and it's pure, simple fantasy with, perhaps, an occasional overtone of satire.

Television has had its share of broad comedy about dogs and horses who talk, but this time we'll be asked to believe in an English-speaking scientist from Mars, with retractable antennae in his skull, whose space ship is damaged and crash-lands in the course of making anthropological studies of man. This fey creature, played by veteran comedy actor
Ray Walston, becomes earthbound where he amazes his one friend, by his ability to become invisible at will, to read minds, to put ideas in other people's minds, and generally perform magic tricks. One can easily see the broad opportunities such a flexible character presents for imaginative comedy writers and even for satirists.

The big problem, of course, will be achieving audience acceptance —adult audience acceptance, that is, because children are accustomed to taking out-of-this-world creatures in stride.

"We know the kids will love it," said Walston, delicately fingering his left antenna. "We just hope the adults will appreciate it."

At any rate, it is a departure in format from the well-traveled ruts. And CBS has shrewdly tucked the half hour show in its Sunday evening schedule, immediately following "Lassie," a great family-type show, and before the ever-popular Ed Sullivan hour.

The Defense Department is interested in manned space stations and to avoid duplication, both military and civilian needs probably will be considered when the project is firm. Reconnaissance would be a major military goal.

Tired, Weary Nicklaus Wins on 13th

By JOE MOOSMIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tired, weary and upset, Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA champion, still had enough steam left Sunday to turn back an Arnold Palmer challenge and repeat for the top prize of $50,000 in the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

The 23-year-old Buckeye better from Columbus, Ohio, several times blew sizeable leads in the two-day playoff but came up with the necessary shots on crucial holes.

"The 13th hole was the big difference," said Nicklaus after pocketing his second World Series check along with a solid gold belt buckle. "I hadn't hit a fairway since the sixth hole and was starting to worry."

Palmer, who had been as much as five strokes behind, pulled even with Nicklaus after the 12th and then put his drive into the right rough, ran into tree trouble and took a double bogey six to fall three strokes behind Nicklaus who put his second shot on the green and then one-putted from 12 feet for his final birdie.

Jack settled down to par golf the rest of the way and kept ahead of U.S. Open champion Julius Boros who birdied four of the last six holes for a closing 69 and a 141 total to finish one stroke behind Nicklaus and pick up second-place money of $15,000.

Palmer was third with a 72 and 143 total and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, who went into the second round tied for first with Nicklaus, had a 77 for a 147. Palmer and Charles each picked up $5,000.

"I didn't get much sleep," said Nicklaus, "maybe three hours. I was still upset over what happened Saturday."

Nicklaus had a run in with two reporters who had taken certain remarks Nicklaus insists he made in jest and turned them into a serious story in which Nicklaus

Somewhere I found strength to break free. Shaking, panting, half out of my mind, I left my strewn duffle with the gun in my fist.

"Not He didn't... I'm not hurt... let him go." She brushed a hand across my cheeks as a blind person might, as though she would etch their shape deep in memory.

I rode home with her and through the lengthening shadows, discreetly accompanied by the inescapable footfalls of the vulture-eyed Marisca, stroled with her among the perfumed blooms of the garden's myriad leaf-lung paths, not talking, content for the nonce just to be with each other.

I was shakenly glad when I came out of its spell to realize that, caught up in such folly, I'd at least had the wit to commune with her in silence. I was still my own man, uncommitted, unbound by any romantic nonsense, no matter what she'd imagined or might be thinking this would lead to.

But it had been a close thing, no getting away from that. I was going to have to watch myself. That old man was a deal more cunning, a greater contriver than I would ever have guessed.

As soon as I could I made my excuses, got back on my horse and hurried to get out of there. But when I came to the river, instead of crossing at the ford, I turned north through the cedars, not feeling up right then to facing Shirl.

A man could see, I told myself, why Shirl had made that pass at her. Hadn't he said, over and over, the surest, quickest way to Villalobos was to marry the girl? The ugly ape had thought to try his hand at it... nothing else made sense.

If only the river would carve out that banco...

I decided to have another look at the place.

It looked just the same as it had the day before. The big holes were still there; the ridge was obviously weakened but with all that rock shoring the thing like a dike, and storms in these parts being generally unpredictable, this could drag along for weeks—maybe months, without even so much as a cloud to brace hope.

I got down and poked around, examining what I could reach of the surface with the painstaking care usually reserved in my circle to the removal of artifacts. I made no fresh discoveries. There were none to be made. Everything to be seen I had gone over yesterday. If I could get a pick into this...

Dismantled, I might get one over here, but I know, even as I squatted there considering the notion, that to do enough work to really loosen this any would be the worst kind of foolishness. Exposure would almost certainly follow... I'd no business here in the first place.

I got back in the saddle and headed for the river.

Only then did I realize how close night had come. Inside of 20 minutes it was going to be dark. Dusk was closing in with its soft creep of shadows. I looked toward Ybarra's and could see the glimmer of lamplight. The ford was back there, at least a quarter mile away.

I peered again at the river and, suddenly, impatient, put the gelding into the water.

He didn't want to go. He kept trying to twist around to get out. I said, "It's time, by grab, you learned who is boss!" and booted him on, abruptly anxious to get home.

He hadn't taken three steps when the bottom dropped out from under him. He came up snorting—I was a little surprised myself—disgusted too, because it was plain I was in for a good thorough wetting. But I wasn't alarmed. I'd never seen the horse yet that couldn't swim if he had to.

I slipped out of the saddle and caught hold of the horn. I thought he might as well do the swimming for both of us. He struck out straight-away, keeping his head up, ears flat. There wasn't much of a current, we could be thankful for that.

Somewhere about then he must

Algerians Okay New Constitution

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—Denounced by foes as a blueprint for dictatorship, a new constitution making Algeria a one-party Socialist state ruled by strongman Ahmed Ben Bella went into effect today.

The government announced that Algerians in Sunday's referendum approved the new constitution overwhelmingly. But the voting was marked by apathy and a boycott by the Berbers, powerful, non-Arabic foes of the premier.

Returns released by the government indicated a nearly 100 per cent approval. It estimated about 70 per cent of eligible voters cast ballots.

There was no impartial check of government figures. Reporters touring scattered areas of Algeria saw voting attendance considerably lower than reported.

The boycott centered in the Kabylie area east of Algiers, inhabited by 2 million Berbers who fought hardest in the long struggle against the French for independence. They consider Ben Bella and his followers interlopers and long ago broke with his regime.

Opposition leader Hocine Ait Ahmed had urged his Berbers to boycott the referendum, saying the constitution opened the way to dictatorship by Ben Bella.

Thus when Ben Bella becomes president next Sunday with strong have touched bottom. We were just past the middle when he quit swimming and stood up with the water blackly lapping along his shoulders, softly chuckling.

I didn't see a thing to get upset or excited about, but suddenly I didn't like the way he kept standing there, looking back at me with his eyes queerly rolling. A whimper came out of him, pitiful, almost human.

It was then that fright grabbed me. My hold on the horn was unsteady water again. I felt the horse shiver. He hadn't taken one step but the only thing still in sight was his head, and you could tell he had it up as high as he could get it. Even as I stared, the water crept around his mouth.

The legs I'd been about to put down I jerked up frantically.

I let go of the horn and struck out for the shore, swimming with every ounce of fight I had in me.

Hope Drops Opener to Texarkana Razorbacks 19 to 7

THE BOBCATS WENT DOWN BEFORE TEXARKANA'S Big Ten team in the 1963 season's opener at Hammons Stadium Friday night 19 to 7 — but this was one bright spot for the locals. Fullback Richard McDowell carried from the Hope 38 to the 48 marker, on a 2nd-down-and-8-to-go, for a first down early in the second half. Other Bobcats in the play: Left Guard Ricky Butler (65), Right Guard Jack Caldwell (64), Left Tackle Jimmy Walker (77), and Center Dan Jones (55).

RIGHT HALFBACK MUTT WASSELL TOOK A PASS FROM Quarterback Mack McLarty deep in the third quarter and made 11 yards and a first down on the Hope 35. No. 64 at upper right is Jack Caldwell.

AS THE THIRD QUARTER ENDED QUARTERBACK McLarty on a keeper play on third down made 10 yards to the Hope 25. No. 75 in the picture is Right Tackle Jimmy Johnson.

THIS WAS HOPE'S FRUSTRATION FRIDAY NIGHT — quarter play Left Halfback Jerry Burnett seems to have a dead-sure catch, but the ball got away at the Hope 20.

Cardinals Trim Dodgers' Lead to 3½ Games

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no doubt we've been here before.

The Los Angeles Dodgers are struggling to hang on to a vanishing National League lead, and Warren Spahn has won his 20th game.

The Dodgers' once-commanding lead was trimmed to 3½ games Sunday as Orlando Cepeda belted a three-run seventh-inning homer that carried San Francisco to a 5-4 victory and sent sagging Los Angeles down to its third defeat in the last five games.

Meanwhile, the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, who were seven games behind on Aug. 30, continued their amazing surge by edging Pittsburgh 3-2 for their 11th victory in 12 games.

The Dodgers have 19 games remaining, the Cardinals 18, including a vital three-game series with Los Angeles at St. Louis starting next Monday. The remainder of the schedule seems to favor St. Louis, which has to play only four games on the road to the Dodgers' 10.

While the spotlight was focused on the Dodgers and Cardinals, Spahn grabbed a share of the glory by becoming a 20-game winner for the 13th time. The 42-year-old Milwaukee marvel equaled Christy Mathewson's league record for most 20-victory seasons in a 3-2 decision at Philadelphia.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets made Joe Christopher's 4-for-4 performance to a 3-2 decision over Cincinnati and Houston edged Chicago 2-1 in a night game.

The American League leading New York Yankees defeated Detroit 5-3, the Chicago White Sox took over second place by whipping Minnesota twice 5-2 and 5-4, Boston downed Baltimore 6-3, Cleveland belted Washington 6-2 and Kansas City edged the Los Angeles Angels 2-1.

The Dodgers scored two unearned runs in the first inning and built their lead to 3-0 against Jack Sanford before the Giants started to get to Bob Miller. Two runs in the fifth brought on ace reliever Ron Perranoski, who pitched out of that jam and another in the sixth before getting caught in the seventh.

Willie McCovey opened with a single to right and Willie Mays beat out a grounder to third base. Cepeda then hit his 24th homer, tagging Perranoski with only his third defeat against 14 victories. Don Larsen, tossed for Wally Moon's eighth inning homer, was the winner in relief for a 7-6 record.

The Cardinals, who picked up two knockouts on the Dodgers over the weekend, got the job done against the Pirates in the third inning. Dal Maxvill, substiting for injured Dick Groat, got things started with a single and Julian Javier belted with a homer. A double

Refuses to Be Counted Out of Meet

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The leg-tiring hills of the rolling Waukegan course are expected to take their toll of the older contenders in the grueling National Amateur Golf Tournament which started today, but 33-year-old Charlie Cox refuses to be counted out.

"The hills don't bother me as much as I thought they would," Cox, who opened his bid for a third title against William Castleman Jr. of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., in one of the featured matches of the first round, took the weekend off to relax.

Defending champion Labron Harris Jr., of Enid, Okla., concentrated on his putting in two weekend practice sessions.

Harris challenged by 199 top amateur golfers, is hoping to become the first champion to repeat since Harvey Ward in 1955 and 1956.

The 21-year-old Oklahoma State graduate student refused to single out the top contenders.

Eighteen-hole matches were slated today and Tuesday, with the survivors playing two 18-hole tests Wednesday and Thursday and 36-hole matches set for the semifinals Friday and the finals Saturday.

Yanks Roll on as Chisox Go Into Second

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

In 1920, the New York Yankees bought a left-handed pitcher from the Boston Red Sox. It changed baseball and ruined the American League.

These days the Yankees—who had never seen a pennant until the purchase of Babe Ruth—grow their own left-handers, and win the pennant every year.

This year's pennant clinching—the fourth straight, 13th of 15, 23th since 1921—should come along before another weekend rolls around. In case the suspense is killing you, the magic number is now four.

The Yankees' newest left-handed pitching star, Al Downing, proved them a game closer to the World Series Sunday with a 5-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers, his 12th of the year and fourth in a row.

The Chicago White Sox swept a double-header from Minnesota, and moved into second place ahead of the Twins, 19½ games behind the Yankees. The White Sox won 5-2 and 5-6.

In other American League games, Steve Barber failed in a bid for No. 20 as the Boston Red Sox whipped the Baltimore Orioles 6-3, Cleveland topped Washington 5-2 and the Kansas City Athletics edged the Los Angeles Angels 2-1.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants tripped the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, while the St. Louis Cardinals edged up with a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh. Warren Spahn won his 20th for Milwaukee, 3-2 over Philadelphia, and the New York Mets took the Cincinnati Reds 3-2, Houston edged Chicago 2-1 in a night game.

Downing is a 22-year-old who is not legally a rookie, although he pitched his first game this season on June 7, after he was called up from Richmond in the International League.

He pitched only 10 big league innings in 1961 and 1962, for an 0-1 record, but spent enough time on the Yankee bench to lose his rookie standing.

His World Series check won't bounce, however.

The White Sox overcame a 4-0 deficit in the second game with four runs in the eighth inning and one in the ninth. The last two were the result of Minnesota errors. Sunday hitter Charley Maxwell hit a double and single and killed a Minnesota rally with a great throw to the plate in the eighth.

Packers Are Making Like Champions

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Farmers Almanac says that it's going to be cold with the possibility of snow in Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 29. The Las Vegas bookies say there's a probability that there'll be a National Football League playoff game there, too.

The mighty Packers open defense of their Western Division and league titles this weekend and there was nothing in the pre-season exhibitions that suggested the loss of Paul Hornung will prevent them from making it four division and three NFL crowns in a row.

The Packers polished off Washington 28-17 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Saturday night for their fifth straight exhibition victory after an embarrassing 20-17 loss to the College All-Stars in Chicago.

Against strictly professional opposition, they have the best record, 5-0, and have allowed fewer points, 58, than any other team in the league and are second in team scoring, 136 over the exhibition season.

The exhibition season closed 12-3, with Pittsburgh edging Cleveland in the Hall of Fame dedication game in Canton Ohio, Sunday before a crowd of 13,462.

That boosted the league's pre-season attendance to a record 1,123,636 for 33 dates, an average of 32,319.

In Saturday Games, Chicago beat Baltimore 14-7, dropping the Colts from the ranks of the unbeaten in the feature of a double-header in New Orleans that drew 51,218 to the Sugar Bowl. Dallas beat Detroit in the opener. New York's defending Eastern Division champions finally jelled and romped over Philadelphia 34-10 at Princeton, N.J., and Los Angeles beat San Francisco 17-0 at Los Angeles.

The American Football League opened regular season play with the defending champion Kansas City Chiefs romping 59-7 at Denver and Oakland upsetting the Oilers 24-13 in Houston in Saturday night games. Sunday, Boston beat New York 38-14 in Boston and San Diego scored a 14-10 victory at home over Buffalo.

In the NFL regular season openers, Detroit, 2-3 in exhibition play, is at Los Angeles, 2-3, and St. Louis, 2-2 is at Dallas 3-2.
